“Crowd funding” is one of the most important new entrepreneurial funding concepts. And, the “crowd funding” concept is now embodied within one of the most talked-about new laws for entrepreneurial ventures: the Jumpstart Our Business Startups (JOBS) Act. The JOBS Act is creating a new regulatory environment for emerging companies raising capital. Attorneys and business professionals need to understand the future of capital-raising. This seminar is directed toward helping the business attorney and business professional understand crowd funding and how to utilize new opportunities, laws and industry mechanisms. Learn about who is governed by the JOBS Act, the latest industry jargon, the risks and limitations, including fraud issues, and the applicable practical opportunities and implementations. Everyone needs money, and this is your opportunity to learn new ways to get it legally.
